BACKFLOW ASSEMBLY TESTING

A Backflow Assembly Tester will test and certify your backflow assembly for you.

Customers can now avoid the hassle of hiring a backflow testing contractor by having the District take care of their backflow assembly test each year. For a fee of $60 (for each assembly tested), the District will hire a contractor to inspect, test and certify the customer's backflow assembly. If simple repairs need to be made, those are included as well as the re-testing and certification. If the backflow assembly is beyond repair, you will be notified that you will need to arrange and pay for its replacement.

This is a voluntary program and you can terminate your involvement at any time and have the testing done yourself. Just give us a call or go to our website, fill out the form and submit it.
